

1      ABSTRACT

2      A method is presented comprising assigning each of a plurality of segments
3      comprising a received corpus to a node in a data structure denoting dependencies 4      between nodes, and calculating a transitional probability between each of the 5      nodes in the data structure.